In other instances, we may decline to honor your request where an exception applies, such as where the disclosure of personal information would adversely affect the rights and freedoms of another consumer or where the personal information that we maintain about you is not subject to the CCPA. Nonetheless, as a California resident, you have the right to be free from unlawful discrimination and retaliation for exercising your rights under the CCPA.

Right to opt out of sharing personal information for cross-context behavioral advertising

California residents have a right to opt out of sharing personal information for cross-context behavioral advertising purposes. You can opt out of this sharing by:

- Enabling the Global Privacy Control (GPC) setting in your browser to communicate your choice to opt out of web-based sharing, such as through pixels and tags. GPC is a setting that allows you to communicate your privacy preferences to websites and online services that you visit. When we detect a GPC signal from a browser, our Online Services are designed to treat the browser as opted out and to stop web-based sharing of personal information for certain targeted advertising purposes, in accordance with applicable laws. You can confirm whether we are processing your GPC signal as a valid request to opt out by clicking here. Please visit the Global Privacy Control website to learn more about the setting and how to enable it on your browser.

- Filling out an opt-out form that applies to certain offline sharing, by visiting the Your California Privacy Choices link and following the instructions.

You can also opt out of certain targeted advertising by visiting the Digital Advertising Alliance Opt Out Page, and TrustArc Preference Manager or by adjusting the privacy settings on your mobile device (e.g., “LimitAd Tracking” on iOS or “Opt out of Ads Personalization” on Android).

Please note that your preferences will only limit the sharing of personal information for certain targeted advertising purposes in accordance with applicable laws or as disclosed by the organization providing the opt-out. For example, if you opt out, Capital One may still use your personal information to personalize our interactions with you, and you may still see Capital One advertisements that result from other advertising techniques. For web-based sharing, you will need to opt out separately on all of your browsers and devices, as your web-based preferences will only apply to the specific browser from which you opt out. If you delete cookies, change web browsers, reset your mobile advertising ID, or use a different device, you may need to opt out again. Our online services do not function differently in response to browser “Do Not Track” signals, but you may opt out of certain targeted advertising as described above.
